

Puppetry, Shadow Play and Object Theatre

QUIJOTE

🗣 Ages 8 and up

Free adaptation of the Miguel de Cervantes novel
The Ingenious Nobleman Don Quijote of La Mancha

In a world - made of paper - that is both ruthless and fragile, Quijote and Sancho are looking for adventure. Stepping in are the vivid and larger-than-life imagination of the frail knight as well as shadow theatre! But the beliefs of Quijote are too powerful. Wherever he turns everyone thinks he is crazy and people make fun of him.

With Quijote, the company is taking on an epic novel that is somewhat of a myth. We were looking for a story that would offer as much potential for action than for philosophical considerations and the unbelievable story of the sorry-faced knight proved to be the answer.

The novel with its powerful dramatic energy is freely adapted and uses shadow theatre to work on the Don Quijote's illusions and echo the questions that Cervantes was asking back in 1605. Are we not confronted with the murky relationship between what is virtual and what is real? Are we not looking for glory through our virtual identities?

Led by a clown duo of actor/puppeteers, the production recounts the unbelievable adventures of Don Quijote and his friendly squire Sancho Panza. Imagination, humor, friendship and the search for glory await in a world of extravagant shadows.

"The clown duo formed by Benjamin Déziel and Maude Gareau set the tone for a production full of mischief, humor and fun finds. (...) With Quijote, Ombres Folles is asking questions of interest about the importance that is given today, in this era of social networks, to the image that we project, to the point that we disguise the truth to make it more exciting ... like Don Quijote!
